

November 5, 2017 Find the perfect relationships

_____ the person _____ is looking for.

From Andy Stanley's The New Rules For Sex and Dating

We find the relationships we're looking for when we are willing to _____ our stuff. Pro 20:6; Ro 2:1; 1Cor 13:5

People don't have relationship problems, they bring their problems into their relationships.

We find the relationships we're looking for when we _____ what we _____, not _____ what we _____ Phil 2:1-4

Greg Sidders/Former Sunridge Lead Pastor

We find the relationships we're looking for when we start _____ up, instead of trying to _____ up.

Matt 19:5; 1Pet 2:2; Pro 27:17

If you attempt to build intimacy with a person before you've done the hard work of becoming a whole and healthy person, every relationship will be an attempt to complete the hole in your heart.- Les and Leslie Parrott

How did you and your spouse or best friend meet?

When it comes to finding a mate, do you believe that God has one perfect person for each of us? If not, what is your perspective on how God brings people together?

How does Andy Stanley's statement, Be the person the person(s) you're looking for is looking for affect your perspective on relationships?

How difficult is it for you to take ownership for your actions and choices? Based on 1Cor 13:5, what would you like to change about how you take personal responsibility to own your own stuff?

What is God teaching you from Phil 2:1-4 about being less self-interested in your relationships? Where is your biggest challenge in applying this? How could a person "go too far" in applying this?

How does the idea of The Blessing Zone affect your perspective on the relationships you're in?

What is God teaching you about yourself through the series #relationshipgoals?

November 5, 2017 Find the perfect relationships

BE THE PERSON the person YOU'RE LOOKING FOR is looking for.

From Andy Stanley's The New Rules For Sex and Dating

We find the relationships we're looking for when we are willing to OWN our stuff. Pro 20:6; Ro 2:1; 1Cor 13:5

People don't have relationship problems, they bring their problems into their relationships.

We find the relationships we're looking for when we GIVE what we HAVE, not GET what we WANT. Phil 2:1-4

Greg Sidders/Former Sunridge Lead Pastor

We find the relationships we're looking for when we start GROWING up, instead of trying to HOOK up.

Matt 19:5; 1Pet 2:2; Pro 27:17

If you attempt to build intimacy with a person before you've done the hard work of becoming a whole and healthy person, every relationship will be an attempt to complete the hole in your heart.- Les and Leslie Parrott

How did you and your spouse or best friend meet?

When it comes to finding a mate, do you believe that God has one perfect person for each of us? If not, what is your perspective on how God brings people together?

How does Andy Stanley's statement, Be the person the person(s) you're looking for is looking for affect your perspective on relationships?

How difficult is it for you to take ownership for your actions and choices? Based on 1Cor 13:5, what would you like to change about how you take personal responsibility to own your own stuff?

What is God teaching you from Phil 2:1-4 about being less self-interested in your relationships? Where is your biggest challenge in applying this? How could a person "go too far" in applying this?

How does the idea of The Blessing Zone affect your perspective on the relationships you're in?

What is God teaching you about yourself through the series #relationshipgoals?